Price Two Cents

No More Credit.

After Sept. 30th, 1898, we will adopt the Cash System. Our books will be closed and our prices reduced from ten to fifteen per cent. We are convinced that this is the proper way to conduct a dry goods and shoe business to the mutual interest of customer and merchant. It will cost any merchant less than fifteen per cent to do a credit business than it would to sell the same amount of goods for cash; this difference we propose to give our customers if they are willing to pay us spot cash. (Proof of the above statement can be seen below.) We feel sure that any one buying for cash will not fail to see where it will be to their interest to trade with us. Thanking you for past favors, we are,

J. M. HENDRIX & CO.

FOR EXAMPLE.—Mr. A buys dry goods and shoes to the amount of $100 and sells them on credit at a profit of 30 per cent, his gain is $30, but this is not all gain as the following will prove: Any merchant doing a credit business is bound to have some losses. This we will put at the low estimate of 5 per cent. He will have to employ a bookkeeper and collector, which will cost him 5 per cent, and if he sells on credit he must necessarily loan credit, and thereby sustain a loss of 5 per cent discount which he could get off if he paid cash for his goods. Add all these losses and expenses together and we find that Mr. A, instead of making $300, has only made $150.

Now we will look at the other side of this question. Mr. B buys dry goods and shoes to the amount of $1,000 and sells them on credit at a profit of 15 per cent; his profit would be $150. Mr. B, by selling his goods for cash will be able to pay cash and get the 5 per cent discount which would amount to $50. Add this to the $150 and we find that Mr. B has made $200, or $50 more than Mr. A, and has sold his goods at one-half the profit. In other words Mr. B, the cash man, has sold his customers goods 15 per cent less than Mr. A, and has made $50 more. Is it not plain to see that selling goods for cash is of mutual interest to merchant and buyer?

NOTES FROM HIGH POINT.

The Local News From Our Neighbor Briefly Told.

TELEGRAM BUREAU.

HIGH POINT, N. C., Sept. 26, '98.

The railroad between here and Jamestown is so well ballasted that it is almost impassable, even to the pedestrian.

Fifteen Syrians passed through this morning on the vestibule enroute to New Orleans. They were natural born jabbies.

H. C. Petty, one of Archdale's most popular young men, left Saturday night to enter Haverford College in Pennsylvania.

We regret very much that our subscribers who get their papers at the drugstore failed to get their paper Saturday night.

The Southbound breakfast train was about two hours late yesterday morning on account of the cylinder head being blown out.

R. W. R. Gillon, of Lexington, left this morning for Greensboro, after preaching two very able sermons at the Presbyterian church.

W. H. Wilson, proprietor of Jarrell's hotel, was taken very ill yesterday with apoplexy. We are glad to state that he is some better today and trust that he will soon be out again.

J. L. Peacock, of Atlanta, who has been visiting his son, L. J. Peacock, returned home Saturday night. He was accompanied by Mrs. L. J. Peacock, who will spend several weeks visiting there.

J. M. Stevens asks us to state that his son Plato M., left his home last night and forbids any one from harboring him. He is sixteen years of age, rather large for his age and when he left he was wearing a black suit of clothes. Any information as to his whereabouts will be gladly received by Mr. Stevens.

Our community was in a great state of consternation yesterday caused by the absence of two of High Point's "400," W. C. Jones and C. A. Barber. It was thought that they were either lost, strayed or stolen. We wired in every direction to find out if they had been sighted anywhere. Late in the afternoon we received a telegram from the chief of police of one of our leading eastern cities stating that they were in the town on social business. "Bill" and "Kit" returned this morning sound as a dollar to the gratification of their many friends.

Gospel Temperance Meeting.

The Union gospel services of the South Greensboro W. C. T. U. were held at Grace M. P. church last night. The pretty auditorium was packed full of attentive listeners and people were turned away for lack of room.

Rev. Dr. T. N. Ivey had been selected to preach the sermon, which he did in an argumentative and able manner. He took the position that the human body, the grandest work of God, "fearfully and wonderfully made," belongs to God, and that man has no right to defile and destroy it by intemperance of any kind. This view was strongly and forcefully presented.

It was an interesting discourse and gave those who heard it much to think about.

A Handsome Mascot.

Private Robert Croker, of High Point, passed through this morning en route to Cedar Falls to visit relatives. He is a member of Co. D, Second regiment, and while at Land's End, S. C., he captured the champion mascot of his regiment. It is a little alligator 2 feet 10 inches long and is a handsome pet—if you don't look at his mouth. Private Croker and a few companions captured another 4 feet 6 inches long, but he was too big for a pet and they dispatched him.

The little fellow's age is estimated at 4 years.

Washington Jottings.

General Stewart L. Woodford has filed his resignation as Minister to Spain.

About 500 applications for pensions arising out of the war with Spain have been filed at the Pension office.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen will begin his vacation by inspecting the four principal navy yards of the Atlantic coast, going in the Dolphin first to Norfolk, then to League Island, then to Brooklyn and then to Boston.

REV. DR. E. A. YATES WRITES,

A Medley of Philosophy, Irony and Satire.

HE'S SEEKING FOR INFORMATION.

Confronted By a Strange Problem, the Good Doctor is Restless to Have It Solved.

From the Durham Sun of Saturday we take the following:

Editor Sun—I am not going to meddle with the great discussion nor "challenge the jury." I may after a while get the boys all righted up, but for the present I am after light. I have always been of an inquiring turn of mind, and when confronted with a strange problem, am restless until I solve it, or get some editor to unravel the thing for me, and hence I write to you.

The newspapers have been for some time advertising Trinity College in such a way that the recent opening of the institution had a larger number of students than she ever had before in all her history. This is a little puzzling, but my philosophy at this point relieves me somewhat.

Just after I had worried over the problem as to how the Philippians were to be governed, here comes this other botheration. In the midst of all the clutter about the Dukes' money going to Trinity College, and the great sin of it, and all that, and the dire combustion and ruin touched off therefor in the newspapers, it seems so strange to me that nearly all the papers have missed the main point and have allowed the awful evil to run unnoticed. Let me ask you as one of the saviors of this country, if this good old man's money is to go on poisoning the youth of this land, what will become of us in a few years?

I learn upon good authority that these Socratic corruptors of our youth have actually given this money poison to several colleges in the western part of our state, and that the colleges were so stupid that they never found out it was poison, and stood, with some others, with open mouths, seeming to say "pizen us agin;" that Mr. Geo. W. Watts, a Presbyterian member of the American Tobacco Company—(whatever that means)—has put the same kind of filthy lucre into a hospital in Durham, and that even the sick are not to be exempt from the poison;—and also from the same poisoner twenty-five thousand of filthy lucre to a Presbyterian theological institute, and that the poor young theologues are to be thus tampered with. And worse still, that the Dukes have actually even slipped up on the blind side of the Quakers and injected some of their poison into Guilford College!

But worse still. We might leave the mountaineer colleges to take care of themselves and defend their literary "innards" from this Duke poison; we might leave the Quakers, who have long since got beyond quaking at small matters, to take care of themselves, and even the sick at Watts hospital may not know that they are being poisoned by American Tobacco Company money. But oh, even the heart of an iron monkey ought to soften at the ruin of the poor orphans at Oxford! Why, it is said that fifteen thousand dollars of this poison have gone to his home put up by the good for the little fatherless and motherless children! Will Duke never stop? And have the papers been paralyzed by the awful shock produced by the Dukes hurling three hundred thousand dollars of these poisoned wheels at Trinity College, so that they have not awakened to the awful evils which I have mentioned above? Will not the papers awake and save the Quakers and save North Carolina colleges? and save the orphans? and save the sick at Watts hospital? What is the matter with all these newspaper watchmen on Zion's walls? Can this negligence on their part be explained? No cry has not gone up against any of these givings of money save and except that given to Trinity College!

Oh, well, what troubles me is I cannot distinguish the whichness from the what, or the wherefore from the when. The howness of the who ever has become so tangled up with the whence-ness of the somewhat that I am compelled, Mr. Editor, to ask you why is this thus?

E. A. Yates.

Dear Dr. Yates.—Art thou a citizen of Durham, and a Ruling Elder who rulish, spiritually, over Supreme court justices and some newspaper men, and going in and out among the people throughout the state, and understandest not these things?

Since the days our Saviour walked the earth, going about healing the sick, men, though sinners themselves, if they have been prompted by pure motives, have challenged the admiration and drawn to themselves the gratitude of men of all nations. Take the instance of the miraculous healing of the Centurion's servant, St. Luke's gospel, chapter 7, verses 4 and 5:

"And when they came to Jesus, they besought Him instantly saying, that he was worthy for whom He should do this, for he loveth our nation and he hath built us a synagogue."

But the Scriptures do not tell us, Doctor, how the Centurion made his money to build the Jews a synagogue, or whether there was an Associate justice of the Supreme Court, or a newspaper man in the crowd. The Sun is left in darkness as to that matter, which happened so long ago. We know, however, that the Centurion was a soldier in the Roman army at that time and commanded a company of a hundred soldiers; but if he was running a cigarette factory at Capernaum we have no record of it. Nordo we know exactly what the farmers around Capernaum got for leaf tobacco in that market at that time; nor do we know how the Supreme court judges made up their cases; or whether advertisements were given out lively or withheld from the papers in that day; or whether scribes, who were not Pharisees, were excluded from their investigations.

It is recorded, you know, Doctor, in the 19th chapter of St. Luke's gospel that "Zacchaeus was the chief among the publicans (not Republicans), and he was rich, and 'because he was of little stature' he climbed up into a sycamore tree to see the Lord." Now, Doctor, it will be noted that though Zacchaeus was rich he does not appear to have attracted much attention from the crowd, as a manufacturer, lawyer or journalist until he climbed that tree, and the Lord seeing him, called him down. No doubt Zacchaeus was a good, all-round fellow, if what he told the Lord about himself was true, for said he: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from my man by false accusations I restore him fourfold." How much he took by "false accusation" we know not, and therefore we don't know how much restored; but to give back fourfold was pretty good rule, Doctor, don't you think?

We would say, however, Doctor, that it is extremely dangerous for a rich man, a judge, a newspaper man, or any other man to climb a sycamore tree, or any sort of a tree in our time to blow a horn to attract public attention, for or against the presence (presents) of a rich man; or even send his servants up the tree. Don't you think so, too, Doctor? THE SUN.

SOME IMPRESSIONS.

All that has been written in these columns concerning the Clark-Kilgo case has been written in a spirit of fairness. No man can say that this writer has ever been prejudiced in the matter. We waited; good while before we gave editorial expression of our views. We opposed the fight on Trinity college for accepting the Duke donations on general principles and said if it was wrong, then most of our colleges and schools, the Oxford orphan asylum, and, indeed, most of our churches, must be condemned on a similar line of reasoning. These views have not been answered or attempted to be answered.

These things led to the conclusion that it was not cigarette money—trust money—blood money, but Trinity college on which the fight was being waged. This is a case where what is sauce for the goose must also be sauce for the gander. The fight reached a grand climax in a trial of Dr. John C. Kilgo on the ground that for alleged sundry reason he was unfit to be president of Trinity college.

Now, take a calm, impassioned view of the spirit of the proceedings. We have just read the official report of the trial, and the reading of it has strengthened and confirmed our formerly expressed views. Judge Clark first made his charges through a newspaper. If he had only intended to rid the college of what he thought was an unfit man, is it not reasonable to suppose he would have brought the charges quietly to the authorities of the church to be investigated? But no, his first tick was an appeal for a popular verdict through the secular press!

Then, when he is asked on the 18th day of July to make good those charges (after having been duly notified beforehand) he says he has no evidence to prove the charges; but that if given time he can get it. Speaking to the board of trustees at that time Judge Clark said:

"I have confidence in your christian character, in your integrity; I have confidence in your fairness in weighing testimony, and what I say now is to give me a reasonable time to lay before you these names and statements over creditable signatures, and when I lay them on the table, if they don't prove the case, then it is for you to say whether they prove it or not."

Get those words fixed in your mind and go with us further. The judge asked for thirty days and was given forty-two days. At the end of that time the board met and his first move was a lengthy "challenge to the jury" in which he charged that the board of trustees was not a competent jury. The public is familiar with the "challenge." Compare the remarkable statements made therein with the lines quoted above.

Then, as we read on, his position becomes more puzzling. We have long regarded Judge Clark as an able and a learned man. He was recognized while on the Superior Court bench as a well-balanced and a just man. Yet, now he comes with an array of slanderous charges made in a newspaper against a preacher and a fellow-member of the church. Then, when the matter is brought up for trial he says he has no evidence, asks for time and is given time. He says the jury is all right. After the postponement the trial comes on again and he says the jury is all wrong and makes a strong "challenge." He has already refused to act as prosecutor and says he is only a witness. Still further along he says he is not even a witness, but that he was asked to get up evidence!

Then, after all this he wanted to make a speech for the prosecution. View these facts alongside of his reputation as an able, learned and just man and draw your own conclusions. These are facts taken from the records of the proceedings as taken down by the official stenographer. And just here we will say this same stenographer took depositions for Judge Clark's side of the case in South Carolina, yet he was objected to on the trial. If Mr. Newsom was all right in South Carolina, why was he not all right in Durham?

The proceedings throughout impress an unbiased man as being entirely impartial, deliberate and fair. The board exhibited a patient desire to get at the facts in the case. We hope all who are interested in the matter and who may be in doubt about it will get a copy of the proceedings and carefully read them.

A REPUBLICAN KICKS.
He Says The Men Elected Hayes Been Faithless to Their Trusts.

Editor of The Telegram—Will you allow me a small space in your columns to dot a few lines. I see from your issue of the 20th, a communication written by an old line republican in which he draws the color line and sounds the key note against negro supremacy in North Carolina. In this I coincide with his views and shall not speak further on that subject.

We have another strong indictment drawn to present to the voting jury of North Carolina against our national office-holders, for their unfaithfulness in the discharge of their duties towards their constituents in not repealing this obnoxious civil service law. Two years ago we were told in case the republican party came in power, that the law would be erased from the national statute and the republican voters would receive the patronage due them for their faithful services rendered their party.

Notwithstanding communication after communication has been sent to Senator Pritchard and other national officials, warning them, if this obnoxious law was not wiped out, that it would sound the death knell to the republican party in the next campaign in North Carolina. In answer to these communications the reply would be, your esteemed favor received and shall have our careful consideration. But these little reminders would soon find their way into the waste-basket to be cremated with hundreds of others of like nature.

Eighteen months of the republican administration have passed away, and not one single effort has been made to remove this monstrous humbug. And it stands on that statute as defiant today as it did two years ago. Thousands of honest voters are standing today with their hands in their pockets crying out, will the good old republican ship never heave in sight bearing the welcome news that this law had been strangled to death?

No, sir; the grand old ship has never reached port. The last accounts heard of her sped stranded in an unknown sea and all on board lost. Yes, lost forever lost to the honest republican voters: who, by their votes have, gentlemen, placed you in honorable positions; fed from Uncle Sam's pincushion to the tune of five to eight thousand dollars a year, and your humble constituents standing afar off asking to be fed from the crumbs that falls from the rich man's table.

Gentlemen, how can you have the face to come before your constituents this campaign and ask them to endorse you again when you have deliberately slapped them in the face and told them to stand back; we will call for you at a more convenient season? Is it possible, gentlemen, that you still hold to theory because we are republicans and are rigged up in republican harness that it will be impossible to kick out of them?

If this is the idea that you have taken up, you will be woefully mistaken, for this little theory of yours will explode and will send you so high heavenward it will require an aeronaut with his balloon to make an ascension to discover your remains. Gentlemen, in conclusion, allow us to make our profound bow and take you by the hand and bid you and your theory of civil service reform adieu, with a gentle reminder that you would not allow us to get any of Uncle Sam's custard pie, and we are of the opinion that if all signs do not fail it is going to be just as much impossible for you to taste it again as it will be for a shark to climb an apple tree tail foremost with a claw-bar in his mouth.

Gentlemen, you must bring to recollection that old things have passed away and all things have become new. In the future the republican voters will strictly demand their rights at your hands, and allow us to gently whisper in your ear and remind you if these rights are not respected we will make you think there will be a hot time in the old town tonight.

A CRITICAL TIME During the Battle of Santiago.

SICK OR WELL, A RUSH NIGHT AND DAY.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all Heroes. Their Heroic Efforts in Getting Ammunition and Rations to the Front Saved the Day.

P. E. Butler, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago, De Cuba, on July 23rd, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of rush and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My courage and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."

The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., of Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by C. E. Holton.

Beautiful
Iron
Grays,

admirably matched and clothed in superb sets of harness all trimmed in gold and drawing a magnificent band wagon, inhabited by twenty-four handsomely uniformed musicians, with fairy-like instruments all glittering and flashing in a noonday sun, is a lovely sight to behold; while the dulcet strains that float out upon the summer air are entrancing. This all may be realized next August in the Grand Trade Parade of the State Fireman's Tournament, but in the time intervening we must prepare ourselves against the ills of life and especially a cold winter.

We are supplied with an immense line of Boy's School pants just from the hands of our old friend, Mrs. Jane Hopkins.

The pants are 4 to 16 and the price 20 to $1.00 per pair.

What to have for breakfast is a puzzling question sometimes. Read the ad of Hudson and see if he can't help you in selecting your eatables.

Door mats are a necessary article if you wish your house cleaning to be effective. Read the ad of Odell Hardware company and then call on them.

A. W. McAlister returned at noon today from Asheboro. We are pleased to learn that Dr. Worth, who was taken sick about ten days ago, is much better.

After this week the Greensboro Evaporating company will close up until next August. They want all the apples they can get this week. See ad in this paper.

On the feet of many men in Greensboro you will find our "Foot Form" shoes. They are perfect models in the way of "Foot Gear." Try a pair. Carolina Shoe Co.

A royal straight flush is a nice thing to hold sometimes. The only thing to compare with it is the work done by the Greensboro Steam Laundry. See new ad.

Miss Kathleen Driscoll, who has been visiting Mrs. C. J. Adair, on East Bragg street, left yesterday for her home in Atlanta, much to the regret of her many friends here.

All members of Greensboro Lodge No. 80, K. of P. are requested to be in their castle hall tonight. There is special work to do. Several candidates for the Grand Orient. Let there be a full attendance of the members.

The old Planter's Hotel is nearing its destination. It is about as far down North Elm as it will be taken. A little trouble now about changing the rollers to pull it off the street to its future site and the fun will be over.

Henry Griffin who a few months ago resigned his position as baggage master on the Southern to join the hospital corps, is in the city on a furlough. Mr. Griffin is looking healthy and hearty and looks well in his uniform.

Marvin Carr came in on the noon train it is supposed from Trinity, but Marvin says he has been in Asheville all the time. He went up on West's excursion and was such a warm number that it was impossible to cool off in two days, he said.

Jay Boone is a hustler and when it comes to advertising he takes a front seat. Lindau has some little stickers the shape, color and size of a cigar to advertise a popular brand, and Jay has put several of these together and spelled "Lindau's Special" on the show window. He gets up many nice ads and uses his own ideas.

CAME AFTER LEE.

A Big Colored Detective From Washington.

One of our policemen who was at the depot yesterday morning when the vestibule came in, was confronted by a big, well dressed negro who introduced himself as Detective Lacy, of Washington, D. C. He had come after Lee Swain, who was arrested here a few days ago and on whom a pistol belonging to the Washington police department was found. The detective produced the necessary papers and Lee and the pistol were delivered to him, and together they left for Washington on the 8:30 train.

The detective said Lee and two other boys broke into the house of a policeman who was off duty and stole the pistol and a watch. Lee's partners were caught soon afterward, but he took the first train for home and thought he had escaped.

Bad Behavior at Church.

We regret very much the necessity of calling attention to the bad behavior of about a dozen or more boys at Grace church last night. It is all the more to be regretted when it is known that sons of ministers and official men were in it. The boys were outside the church and had to be asked to keep quiet. So great has been the disturbance that official members of the church are thinking of putting a special policeman on duty there this week.

Shame on these young men who have no more respect for themselves or for the cause of Christ than to misbehave at or near a church to the disturbance of worship. We hope we shall hear no more such reports.

An Arm Broken.

Several little boys who were at the football ground Saturday afternoon as spectators began playing rather roughly and William Wetmore, one of the party was pushed down so rudely that his right arm was broken. Dr. Turner set the broken limb and William is getting along nicely.

Buckley's Arnica Salve.

It's guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by C. E. Holton.

A FREE FIGHT.

In Which Several Well-Meaning Neighbors Took Part.

Will Lloyd, white, was up before Squirre Eekle this morning for taking part in an affray. Lee Poter whom Will was fighting could not be found. The fight occurred at a grocery store in East Greensboro. The evidence shows that hatchets, weights, chairs, scantlings, &c., peck measure and "everything usually found in a first-class grocery store," as the ads run, were brought into play during the rucus. Several colored neighbors ran out to "help save the store" they said, but when peck measures, hatchets, &c., began flying so promiscuously they were forced to retreat. It seems that nobody knew which was which or who was who and when a peck measure or other weapon was started every one in the crowd was hit before it dropped out and something else was taken up. Squirre Eekle untangled the affair as best he could and bound Lloyd over to court.
